1 Before restructuring costs and pension one-offs; 9M 2022 includes €52.3 million book profit on divestment Wayss & Freytag.

Ruud Joosten, CEO of Royal BAM Group:

‘Overall, I am pleased with BAM’s performance in the first nine months of 2022. Looking to the third quarter, the operational result was held back by inflation, supply chain issues and some delays. In the division Netherlands, residential activities contributed well, and civil engineering is steadily improving. In the division United Kingdom and Ireland there is good momentum for energy and defence projects and the rail infrastructure network.

The completion of the Wayss & Freytag divestment supported the improvement of our capital ratio by 3.4 per cent to 21.1 per cent. We have now finalised our divestment agenda, a key element of our strategic plan to create a more predictable, profitable and sustainable company in 2023. From now on, we focus on further improvement of the activities in the Netherlands, United Kingdom and Ireland and our remaining operations in Belgium.'
Our order book of €10 billion is at a good level. We continue to focus on contracts with a healthy risk/reward balance. The global macroeconomic environment has deteriorated, impacting business climate and consumer confidence. We continue to face industry-wide pressure in the supply chain, cost inflation and high competition to attract and retain employees. We are able to mitigate most of these headwinds through sourcing arrangements, contract terms and pricing.

We see attractive market opportunities supported by demand for decarbonisation, critical infrastructure and sustainable buildings, where we have proven market-leading capabilities. We are proud of our positive contribution to society, with our solutions for affordable and sustainable homes and critical infrastructure.

We are on track with the execution of our strategy and we are committed to realise our 2023 strategic targets. For 2022, BAM expects to deliver an adjusted EBITDA margin of at least 4 per cent, excluding the book profit of €52 million on the Wayss & Freytag transaction.’

Business review first nine months 2022

In the division Netherlands, the residential activities continued to perform well, following a very strong performance in 2021. In the first nine months, BAM sold 1,103 homes versus 1,787 in the comparable period last year. BAM expects full-year sales of approximately 2,000 homes. The performance non-residential construction disappointed due to inflation, supply chain issues and delays at some projects in the Netherlands and Denmark. The demand for energy, water and telecom solutions remains high and the results at civil engineering are improving steadily.

The performance of the division United Kingdom and Ireland, was also impacted by inflation and supply chain issues on some larger contracts, which resulted in a lower contribution in the third quarter. The performance in Ireland was stable. Mainly following a UK government review of the regional roads development programme review, the order book was reduced. The total backlog remains strong at €5.3 billion.

The activity level of Germany, Belgium, and BAM International, declined substantially following the completion of the divestment programme and the progress with the wind-down of BAM International. Overall there was a modest positive contribution from operations.

As published on 17 October 2022, the Dutch authorities have informed BAM International that the company is the subject of an investigation relating to potential irregularities at some already completed projects. BAM is fully cooperating with the investigation. The timing and the possible outcome of the investigation are uncertain.

Financial review

Trade working capital remained at a good level and the cash position of €0.9 billion is solid. BAM’s capital ratio improved to 21.1 per cent compared to 17.7 per cent in the first half-year, mainly due to the divestment of Wayss & Freytag.
